Know Illinois

When Plankesaw, an Indian village as early as 1791, was subdivided by an enterprising realtor, the name was changed to Danville and the original 42 lots were sold for $22 apiece.

A total of 4,268,197 tons of coal were mined in the state during July. This figure is nearly the same as the total for the same month in 1925.

While only 33 of the 984 gas companies in the United States are in Illinois, their combined annual production amounts to more than 11 per cent of the total for the country.

Illinois is so far advanced in its hardroad building campaign that only 300 miles of detours—the bane of the autoist's existence—are in the state, says the department of roads.

Interconnection of central gas manufacturing plants by high-pressure mains is rapidly proving for Illinois a "superfuel" system similar in character to its well developed electrical superpower.

Robs Police Station of Drugs on Display

New York.—Morphine and cocaine valued at $1,000 were stolen from an exhibition case in the office of Capt. Henry Schoch, chief of the police narcotics squad at police headquarters. The thief left no clue and no announcement of the robbery was made either by Captain Schoch or Police Commissioner McLaughlin, whose office is only a few paces away. Although the case contained jeweled and gold lamps, pipes and other paraphernalia for the smoking of opium, none of these articles, valued at many thousands of dollars, was touched.

It is believed that the thief was a drug addict. There were two cases in the room. One of them contained genuine narcotics and the solid gold and jewel-studded pipes and lamps. The other contained fake narcotics and replicas of the paraphernalia. The case of fakes was not disturbed.

Boy With Play Pistol Captures Two Burglars

Kansas City, Mo.—Two burglars entered a South-side home here and walked boldly out with their loot, but John Smith, high-school boy, saw them, so he, with a companion, captured the pair after commanding "Stop, or I'll blow your heads off." John had a blank revolver used in a postponed Fourth of July celebration.

SUPER-SENSITIVE, NON-CRITICAL DETECTOR TUBE ANNOUNCED

New Tube Consumes Quarter Ampere and Provides Vastly Increased Sensitivity and Volume in All Storage Battery Sets.

NEW YORK.—A new detector tube, UX-200-A, which is described as super-sensitive, non-critical and economical in operation, and which will markedly increase the reception range of the average type of broadcast receiver, has made its introduction to radio set owners, experimenters and radio fans, according to an announcement made by Elmer E. Bucher.

Bucher of the Radio Corporation of America. "This tube may be used in any existing receiver operating on a six-volt storage battery," said Mr. Bucher, "and it will provide vastly increased sensitivity as well as output volume, with no changes or critical adjustments of any kind."

"The UX-200-A Radiotron is the result of long and extensive study and development with the detection and rectification of radio frequency energy by the research engineers of the RCA's manufacturing associates, the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Co.," Mr. Bucher declares.

So far as physical dimensions and base are concerned, the new detector tube is similar to the well known UX-200 and UX-201-A tubes. However, the new detector tube has a characteristic appearance quite different from any other tube. Instead of a plain or silvered bulb, the UX-200-A has a bluish, smoky color due to the special gas content but incidentally serving as a means of identification.

High sensitivity has been the prime requisite in developing this new detector tube. While this has been achieved in a miraculous degree, neither the current consumption of the tube has been increased nor have the adjustments been made any more critical. The filament, which is of the XI type, requires only one-quarter of an ampere at a potential of 5 volts. The "B" battery potential usually recommended is 45 volts while a lower potential as in the case of the UX-201-A may be used with very little difference in results. A 10 ohm rheostat should be employed to regulate the filament current which would presumably be supplied by a 6 volt storage battery.

"The UX-200-A tube has a greater sensitivity than any existing special detector tube," according to Mr. Bucher. It may be used in any receiver of the storage battery type without change or special adjustment. The UX-200-A Radiotron answers the demand for a highly sensitive ultra-stable, storage battery detector tube so long desired by owners of storage-battery receivers who seek the utmost efficiency in broadcast reception. Actual tests with typical receivers indicate that UX-200-A provides an increase in volume nearly equal to an additional radio-frequency amplifier stage, without distortion or loss of tone quality. The sensitivity is likewise vastly increased.

Characteristics of UX-200-A Radiotron

Detector
Design.... Same as standard UX-201-A
Base.... Same as standard UX-201-A
Filament Voltage..... 5
Filament Current..... .25 ampere
Plate Voltage..... 45 maximum
Plate Current..... .2 milliamperes
Plate Impedance..... 28,500 ohms

Mr. Bucher pointed out that a detector having the efficiency of the new Radiotron UX-200-A was not essential to the operation of the Super-Heterodyne where the sensitivity with the ordinary form of detector tube goes to the limit of that which is practically usable; for it is well known that the Super-Heterodyne provides a high sensitivity level through its intermediate frequency stages which amplify at a single frequency of wavelength.

OLD CAPITAL DOZES AS OTHERS DEVELOP

Cettinje Continues Its Monotonous Life.

Cettinje, Montenegro.—While all the other capitals of Europe have been growing at a rapid pace, Cettinje, once the stronghold of King Nicholas' picturesque Montenegrin kingdom, has slumbered in an atmosphere of medievalism and oriental self-complacency.

Situated in the heart of the "Black mountain" district, the natives live the same precarious, monotonous lives they did centuries ago when they fled from the Turks.

But the "littlest of Europe's capitals" still retains all that color, romance, animation and oriental fascination which gave Franz Lehár, the Austrian composer, his inspiration for writing "The Merry Widow."

The spot where he wrote that lively operetta is still pointed out to visitors. The great oak tree under which the redoubtable King Nicholas carried on the affairs of state and collected tribute from his subjects still stands, the object of intense curiosity of all tourists.

The inclusion of Montenegro in the kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, while conferring many benefits on the hardy mountaineers, has changed the outward aspects of Cettinje but little. In a country which is made up largely of rock and barren soil, life is given only to the sure, the strong and the swift. In many cases the Montenegrin pitches his modest stone hut high up among the crags where the eagle makes its nest.

One American visitor characterized Montenegro as a "land of tombstones." Left to itself, the country would starve, for such small arable land areas as exist produce only about one-third the population's food requirements. The rest must come from the outside.

Yet in this primitive, poverty-ridden land, women do all the work. It is an age as old as the country itself that "man is the warrior and woman the worker." Man's sole duty is to defend the home and his family's honor with firearms. The women age prematurely under the ceaseless burden of work, and few of them live beyond fifty.

HASSAN TAGI ZADEK

Hassan Tagi Zadek, Persian minister of foreign affairs, has come to the United States as commissioner general to the sesquicentennial in Philadelphia. He called on President Coolidge in Washington.

Samoans Fear Native Oath More Than Bible

Apa, Samoa.—While men who introduced the system of plotting land and the surveyor's methods of defining boundaries, brought with them to Samoa the white man's method of administering oaths.

So, officially, the native Samoan places his hand upon the Holy Bible to swear that title to a certain piece of land belongs to him. But those who have lived here long know that at heart the native does not have the degree of fear when an oath is taken upon a Bible that he had for the old Samoan oath. Where grave issues are at stake he is apt to discard the modern form for the old one.

While the old manner varied in the different villages, the common rite was to take a bunch of grass and lay it on a stone or other object that represented the family or village god. The contesting parties would say with hand resting on the grass: "In the presence of this whole assembly, I lay my hand on the grass: If I have declared falsely, may I suddenly die."

New York Man to Oust Slums of Metropolis

New York.—August Heckscher, real estate operator and philanthropist, sailed for Europe with a vow that he would dig into the tenements of New York on his return and clean them up. He intends to study housing for the poor in Germany, Holland and England as an emissary of Mayor Walker and with the information he gathers there attack the housing problem in this city with his own funds and as much aid from other wealthy men as he can muster.

Blush Is Rare

Mundelein.—Blushing is rare nowadays and may arouse suspicion, in the words of a Bavarian judge, but it is not evidence of guilt. And so the conviction of a shy youth, who was much confused when a stenographer accused him of theft, has been reversed.

ELEVEN SLAIN IN FEUD OVER GIRL DEAD THREE YEARS

Guns Still Blaze in New York's Gangland Because of Love Rivalry.

New York.—The guns of New York city's gangland killers still are ready to blaze in a bloody feud over a girl who has been dead for three years. Eleven men have died in the feud. Any time the twelfth may be dropped with a bullet in his back or his heart. And all for the love of beautiful Yotchi Churgin, whose scorn of the love of a gang leader started the feud.

Deserted Gang Chief.
Yotchi was just a girl, less than twenty-one, when she met Jack Kaplan, known as Kid Dropper, the leader of the Essex street gang. She scorned Kaplan when she learned he already had a wife. Later she fell in love with Louis Schwartzmann, a messenger for the Little Angles gang. Schwartzmann was killed one day as he embraced his sweetheart. The feud was on. The girl went into hiding and killed herself, three years ago.

Kid Dropper was arrested by the police in a roundup of known gangsters following the murder. He was freed in court. And he died in a pool of blood when Louis Cohen, a slim young friend of Schwartzmann, put a bullet in his heart just outside of the magistrate's office. Cohen was sent to prison for life.

Many Others Killed.
In the years that followed eight other men were killed. One was an Essex street gangster. The next was sure to be a Little Angles man. Police foretold the deaths each time—but were powerless to prevent them.

The eleventh victim of the feud was Max the Witack, a member of the Little Angles gang. He was shot to death as he stood at the telephone in the hall of his cheap restaurant. He tore the telephone from the wall and threw it at his assailants before he died.

At the funeral of Max the Witack, his brother raised his hands to the sky and shouted:
"I'll find the one who done it and get him, I swear I will!"

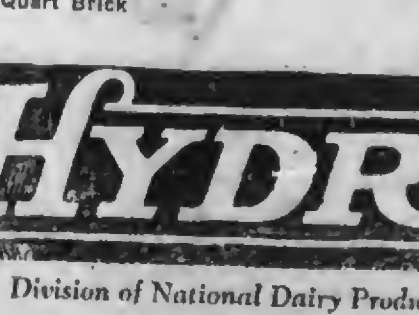

So police expect a Kid Dropper gangster to die next. They can't arrest anybody. Threats made under mental strain don't amount to much in court. Besides, Benny Goldberg's Max's brother, no doubt has friends who would be willing to help him keep his vow.

Next!
Sam was an old southern darkey whose inability would never permit him to acknowledge a thing could not be done, even though he was utterly at a loss as to procedure. He was called by a tenant in the flat where he was janitor to examine a leaky pipe. "Now I could find that leak," he said, scratching a bewildered head, then adding, in a burst of inspiration, "ef I could just locate it."

The ceremony was performed in the presence of fifty friends and relatives, at the home of the bride's parents, 303 Main street. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion, the dining room in red and white, and the parlor in white and green, with an arch in one end under which the wedding party stood.

Miss Edna Lindgren, a cousin of the groom, played the wedding march from Lohengrin and the bride couple came in, attended by two maids, the Misses Mabel Lindgren and Edith Johnson, and by Earl Grice and Theron Richards. Both maids wore fluffy net gowns, while the bride wore a gown of white chiffon taffeta and carried bride's roses. After the ceremony a wedding reception was held, and a wedding supper was served. ## Methodist Church Notes

Work on the Parsonage grounds goes merrily on. Making the garage out of the old barn is progressing rapidly. The "Observatory" has been razed to the ground, and a general air of accomplishment is observable about the place. The Stanton's are about packed and ready to be driven out into the cruel, cold world by the invading builders. The garage is being made ready so that their goods may be stored there while the house is being rebuilt.

The work of getting subscriptions for the work is progressing. Mrs. Ferris and Mr. Stanton are putting in a lot of time at that task. We hope that you will be ready to tell them what you can subscribe to be paid over a period of three years when they call.

Sept. 19, Church School at 9:45, and Worship at 10:45. The subject of the morning sermon is "The Temptation of Jesus."

In the evening Service at 7:30, the Male Quartet will sing, "Hail to the Conqueror" the sermon theme, for the evening. Sept. 26 will be Rally Day for the Sunday School at the hour of 9:45. The Lord's Supper will be commemorated in the evening of that day.

Grade School Letter For September

Not often does an avalanche happen in a strictly non-mountainous locality, but no other term describes what occurred at the Grade School last Tuesday. One Hundred and Eighty-two children! It didn't take the five teachers long to get them registered, however, and by the end of the first week everything was running smoothly. We think the teaching staff is to be congratulated on its work.

There are twenty-eight beginners this year, and about twenty in the second grade, which number of pupils are all in Mrs. Lux' room. Mr. Petty has a very large roomful, but the other two rooms are not quite so crowded. Miss Pierce, in charge of the Special Opportunity room, has eighteen pupils. In this room are the children who have had difficulty with one or two subjects and have been held back on that account. With Miss Pierce's assistance, we hope to get these pupils caught up with their grade. The school has been too crowded for the last two or three years for any pupil to get much special attention, and that is why we felt we needed a special teacher to help us out. This Special Opportunity room idea is new, but is being adopted in a number of places in the State, and it is endorsed by Mr. Simpson.

By means of a special heater, the front room over the entrance has been made comfortable for all winter use, and with the cutting of four fire doors, and the repairing of the fire-gong system, we hope to have made the school as safe and comfortable as possible. A little work remains to be done on the grounds such as filling in the old foundation of the Dildema property, now a part of the playground, and the putting up of baseball backstops to prevent the ball from going out on the street, and then everything will be ship-shape.

I know comparisons are supposed to be odious, but this one will out in spite of me. The High School, now ten years ago, now adding a big addition, to house a hundred and fifty pupils, and having nine teachers. The Grade School, now thirty-four years ago, no addition in sight, with an enrollment of one hundred eighty-two, and five teachers. If Antioch can afford the one, it certainly can afford to better the condition of the other. Some one said the other day that it was like the story of the house built on the sand, a fine house but no foundation to build on. The High School is fine, no one would think of depriving them of one of their possessions, but why not furnish a foundation for this splendid house?

Parents are cordially invited to visit school and become acquainted with the teachers. You owe it to your children to see what the conditions are in their school, and remember, the teachers of today are fixing ideas in the heads of your children that will be the working principles with which Antioch will be run in twenty-five or thirty years. Thinking of it in that light, it isn't such a funny or unimportant matter, is it?

Mary E. Mapletorpe, Clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Anderson entertained Tuesday at their home at Channel Lake: Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the Peoples' Church, of Chicago, also the board of Trustees of which Mr. Anderson is President. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Essley, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ganning, Mr. W. T. Landenson, Mrs. Philip E. Gould, Mr. G. G. Reynolds, Mr. F. F. Manning, Mr. N. A. Durmont. The new church will be ready to open some time in October.

The Biscayans are a remarkable race of people, dwelling partly in the southwest corner of France, but mostly in the north of Spain, adjacent to the Pyrenees. They are probably descendants of the ancient Iberi, who occupied Spain before the Celts. ### ST. IGNATIUS' CHURCH NOTES

Episcopal
Sunday School 9:45.
Morning Prayer 10:30.
Next Sunday will be the Sixteenth after Trinity and will be the occasion of Rally Sunday for St. Ignatius' Church and Church School. It is hoped that every one that is in any way interested in the work of the church will try to be present at the service of worship at 10:30. One must start the beginning of a good habit sometime and this is a good date to begin. Why not obey that Divine impulse to worship Almighty God in a decent way and thru the means He has appointed, the Church? You may worship God in other ways and in other places but 'you don't'. Banners have been given out of the Christian flag with its magnificent color scheme of a white body with the Red Cross of Christ and His Church on a field of blue bearing the motto "We're Going Forward." The motto will be the text of Mr. Dixon's sermon.

The Church has been redecorated due to the kind labor of Mr. Osmond and the gift of the materials of Mrs. John Morley. Two beautiful torches that are symbols in the Church service of Our Lord's Divine and Human Nature, have been donated by Mrs. Frank Morley of Lake Villa. Several other promises of gifts to the Church have received and will help to carry out the spirit of the Scriptures, "Make the place of my feet glorious" Isaiah 60:30. The teachers in the Church School are as follows: Older Girls, Mrs. Wm. Osmond; Older Boys, Mr. Dixon; Younger Girls, Miss Gladys Barthel; Younger Boys, Mrs. Chase Webb; Primary Department, Miss Bernice Folbrink and Miss Edna Verrier.

The Ladies' Guild will meet next Wednesday, place to be announced later or phone Mrs. Fred Hawkins, President. ## CHESAPEAKE REGION A MAGNIFIED VENICE

Section Full of Charm and Historic Interest.

Washington. — Agitation to save Fort Hunt and Fort Washington as historic sites turned attention to the lower Potomac, an historic region which seldom makes any considerable ripple in the world's news, says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"School histories tell how tobacco planters of colonial Virginia depended on rivers for transportation; and, in 1828, the lower Potomac and Chesapeake bay country still is in the river transportation stage.

"Representative of the numerous tiny steamers that carry both passengers and freight in this region is one line which plies from Washington to Baltimore. It makes a trip 300 miles by water in 63 hours, which can be covered in 45 minutes on a railroad train.

Salute to Mt. Vernon.

"The standard day steamer is a screw propelled boat 100 to 150 feet long. It carries one or two decks of cabins and draws from 8 to 12 feet of water.

"On its leisurely way down the Potomac to the way to Baltimore, the steamer touches history nearly every time it puts in at a landing in Maryland or Virginia. Soon after leaving Alexandria where General Braddock landed on his way to meet the French and defeat near Pittsburgh, the steamer passes under the guns of Fort Hunt and Fort Washington.

Then the passengers hear the whistle blast the traditional salute to stately Mount Vernon. Across the river is Marshall hall and in Gunston Cove is brown brick Gunston hall, manor of Washington's close friend, George Mason. Port Tobacco cannot be reached. Its creek is silted up. But Colonial Beach, once the private landing of 'Light Horse Harry' Lee, awaits the steamer. Colonial Beach is now a summer resort for capital residents.

Wakenfield, birthplace of George Washington, is within sight from the steamer lane. This site and monument will soon receive more attention from Americans, for the government has recently authorized the building of a good road to the main pike.

"The dependence of this historic Virginia shore on water transport is typical of the whole Chesapeake bay country. Northern neck is the birthplace of Presidents and Statesmen. From Northern neck came George Washington, James Monroe, Robert E. Lee, Thomas Lightfoot Lee, and Richard Henry Lee, and the father of John Marshall. Near the edge of it was born James Madison.

"Northern neck is the northern strip of a great rectangular block of land between the parallel lines of the Potomac and James rivers. If you search the map closely you will see that this block is sliced into three major sections by tidal rivers. On the bay side there are five wide river mouths on a 70-mile front separating and isolating broad headlands almost as effectively as would mountain ranges. On the opposite Maryland shore there are five headlands in 60 miles. In the Chesapeake one goes visiting in a motor boat. Light signals are more applicable than the telephone.

Rivers Too Wide to Bridge.

"There are numerous villages in Tidewater Virginia that are three and four times farther from a railroad than any town in Illinois, Iowa or Ohio. Even modern auto truck service cannot help them much, because a trucker would have to spend much of his time in this large-scale rural Venice, ferrying rivers too wide to bridge economically.

"One of the most historic of the Potomac landings is St. Mary's. The steamer winds up between the narrowing banks of the St. Ignace creek, a sunken creek mouth like all the Chesapeake bay rivers. Then the boat makes the final turn among the crescent beaches, green fields and blotches of dark pine, a pier comes in view at the foot of a high green bank. Among the trees is the white shaft of a monument to Leonard Calvert, who founded the Palatinate of Maryland on this site in 1634. For many years St. Mary's was the capital of Maryland and the bricks of the old state-house are now incorporated in the vine-covered Episcopal church set in the ancient graveyard.

"The charge that America is cursed by the speed of modern life cannot be made to include the Chesapeake bay country. Life there takes its pace from the soft, sunny climate and the inhabitants at each landing watch the arrival and departure of their 'Argosy to the Outside World' with homely calmness of spirit. Since there are no hills, the tree-clotted headlands and islands and jutting piers seem to be some peaceful and pastoral design embossed upon a limitless blue sheet of water.

"A Chesapeake bay voyager soon realizes that fine seamanship is not confined to the high seas. Taking a river steamer up the turns and twists between narrow banks and turning the 100-foot boat around in a space which appears to be 100 feet, calls for careful navigation.

"The visitor's growing conception of river traffic's importance to this region is enforced at places like Ocean's Landing, which is about 200 feet from the next stop, Hundick's wharf. Yet to go by road from Ocean to Hundick's is a 25-mile journey."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

That reading the ads of your local papers carefully will prove to you that merchandise cannot only be bought as cheaply in the home city, but you can actually receive more for your money than you can by sending to mail order houses or distant cities.

That this is proven every day. That money spent at home builds some your city; money sent away builds some other city. Build The Home City!

That the local merchant seeks your business, he needs your business, he should have your business.

That the merchants are your neighbors, your friends and a big living part of your city.

That as their business grows so will your city grow.

Keep Your City Growing!

That as a citizen, as a booster, as a builder every citizen should patronize the home merchant.

People Who Have Pride In The Home City Should Buy At Home.

Write Your Own Telegrams

The telegraph service is now being added to the state telegraph system of France and one can now transmit a telegram in his own handwriting to all the leading French towns. The service is not only useful for sentimental but practical purposes, as the courts will probably accept a signature sent by wire as legal.

Baldness and Brains

We learn something new every day. Thus a scientist has discovered a close kinship between the loss of hair and the growth of brains. That is to say the bald-headed man is more intellectual than his well-thatched brother. Perhaps, perhaps. But the bald-headed men have still to prove it.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Coloring of Ducks

In many species of wild ducks the males are large and strikingly colored. Their mates, upon whose shoulders fall the family cares, are smaller and dressed in somber garb, says Nature Magazine. The dun concealing colors of the female serve to protect both her and her eggs from the prying eyes of enemies.

Climatic Changes

The evidence that climatic conditions have changed in the Arctic and Antarctic circles is mainly geologic. It is believed that tropical conditions existed as far north as Greenland between the glacial epochs. Remains of animal and vegetable life have been found in these regions, which indicated that once the climate was warm enough to permit of their growth and existence.

AUTOMOBILE MANNERS

Some observers think automobiles are running American manners, but perhaps some of these folks who are showing discourtesy did not have any to ruin.

There are many drivers who act differently when they get behind a steering wheel than they do anywhere else. If they went to a party or dance and pushed their way down the center of the room, jostling the guests as they went, treading on their toes, making them jump to avoid collision, and calling to them to get out of their way, they would commonly be called roughnecks.

Yet they do about that thing in a crowded street. The public is so used to such exhibitions that it tolerates them, makes but little complaint, and does its best to jump for safety.

It seems strange that a good many persons who are ordinarily well-mannered, will yet act in this course and arrogant way. They seem to think it is everyone's duty to wait for them and get out of their way. If they test their horns violently, they feel they have done all that is required of them.

The law is doing what it can to correct such violation of the public regulations and of ordinary common sense and courtesy, but community sentiment ought to call upon some of these people to display better manners.

Real gentlemen and ladies come cautiously down a crowded street, just as mindful of the people in the way as if they were in someone's parlor, glad to stop to let pedestrians pass, preferring to yield a probable right of way rather than show any crowding disposition. The News desires to pay its tribute of appreciation to the great majority of drivers in Antioch.

Your Children's School Work

Many parents of Antioch are asking about now, how they can help their children to obtain more benefit from their studies during the school year now beginning.

If they were to put that question up to a number of teachers, they might get a reply something like this:

"The trouble with a good many children," such a teacher might say, "is that it is difficult to make them see that their school lessons are of great importance to them. When they take up history, for instance, some of them will say to themselves that these old days were a very long time ago, and have nothing to do with their affairs now."

"These children will sometimes ask how it will help them to sell goods in a store, or run a machine in a factory, to know who the presidents of the United States were or what started the Civil War."

If pupils can be convinced that knowledge is really important to them, they will do twice as much work. Their heads are full of sport and fun, so that it is difficult for many of them to foresee their future needs. Parents should aid the teachers in this effort, and tell these youngsters what will happen to them if they fall down on their school work.

Try them in terms of their own experience. Ask them what they would say if some stranger should come on their football field and ask foolish questions about why they kicked that dirty old ball back and forth, and what good it did them to pile up in a heap in the dust? They would laugh at that fellow and ask what "rule" town he came from anyway?

So it can be said to them, that when they grow up and show ignorance of the things that interest intelligent people, the world looks at them and laughs, and asks where they blew in from. The community has little use for people who are mentally asleep.

Worthless Eggs No Waste

Eggs that are worthless so far as food value goes are not wasted by the large dealers, but are covered with kerosene after being broken, treated with boracic acid and sold to tinneries for use in one of the first processes of tinning leather. The shells are removed by sieves and the egg mixture is placed in a revolving drum with the raw hides to make them pliant.
